We highly recommend composing your obituary in your own word document on your computer. This will ensure you have your original text to copy from in the event you need to switch package sizes.

Another advantage to having your obit in your own word document is the ability to get an approximate word count which will help steer you to the right obit package size.

which will help steer you to the right obit package size.
